ANT INFORMATION TO OFFICERS AND SOLDIES he following communication on the subject of "three months' extra pay, authorized by the act of March 3, 1865," will serve to enlighten bore who have been in doubt as to the contions upon which such pay may be expected:

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10, 1866. nj Erasmus O. Brown, late Surgeon 26th Ken-ucky Volunteers Infantry:

Sir: Your favor of the 8th inst, stating that ou resigned after the surrender of the rebel ou resigned after the surrender of the rebel armies under Lee and Johnston, and inquiring whether you are entitled to the three months' whether you are entitled to the three months' pay proper under the 4th section of the act of March 3. 1865, (statutes at large, 38.4 Con grees, 1864 and 1865, p 497), has been received. This subject seems to be greatly misunderstood by officers generally, judging from the numerous applications on the subject.

The act provides: "That all officers of volunteers now in commission below the rank of Brigadier-General, who shall continue in the military service to the close of the war, shall be entitled to receive, upon being mustered out of service, three months' pay proper.

A REMARKABLE EPRING .- A few days ago we ublished a paragraph in the Journal in refernce to a spring at Munfordville, which has atacted some attention. The following letter em Brownsboro, Ky., may serve to elucidate BROWNSBORO, March 12, 1866. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: GENILAMEN: In your issue of this morning, you publish the fact that "there is a large pring near Munfordville that ebbs and flows eighteen inches every twenty-four hours." And ask "how can this be accounted for? Can any savant inform us?" &c. Without making any pretentions to being classed with the high order of intelligences mentioned in the last query. I will offer what I conceive to be a clear solution of the phenomenon. think there can be no reasonable doubt tion is materially the same. If the flow mitting, the spring is evidently a single reservoir by means of nesso until the basin is refilled to the arch of the siphon, when it begins to flow, and the spring is again flush.

That this alternate increase and diminution in the strength of the stream should occur every twenty-four hours is rather singular, but proves nothing, except that precisely that length of time is required for the siphon to empty the basin, and for the latter to become refilled to the arch of the siphon.

Hoping that I have rendered my meaning intelligible, I remain, Elligible, I remain, Yours, truly,
BROWNSBORO, KY., March 12, 1866.

In Oakland township, Schuyler county Il., on Sunday last, a gang of rowdies gave a charivari to a newly married couple, at the house of a Mr. Middleton. Becoming rather more demonstrable than was agreeable, and committing some trespasses on the house, Mr. Middleton opened the door to remonstrate with them, when he was knocked down with a club. His cousin, Murray Middleton then ru hed to his assistance, when they attacked him, knocked him down by striking him on the head with a rock or brick-bat, and stamped him so severely that he lingered till daylight next morning, when he died. There is a peculiar people at Wallingord, Conn., who style themselves Commun sts. They ignore rum, tobacco, tea, coffee, pork, swearing, quarre'ing, wrangling, gossiping, backbiting, lying, cheating, and defrauding—all of which is well, so far as it goes. Unlike the Mormons, they have but one "affinty" at the same time, with whom they "live" so long as both can agree-when they are "divorced," not by a decree of the courts, but by mutual consent. A lady calling herself Miss May Paddock, ho is traveling with a troupe giving entertaicments in the inland towns of Ohio, was confronted at Waynesburg by the husband of the "Miss May," who accompanied the party to Alliance with the purpose of having them all arrested. The woman had been his wife for sixteen years -left her home in Steuben county, New York, NIAGARA COUNTY, N. Y., SELLING OUT t is a noticeable fact that there never was so much real estate being offered for sale in Niag. ara county, N. Y., as at present. Everybody sems to have some complaint, such as "oil on he brain," "gold fever," "Western chills," o Southern sweats," and all are determined to aigrate to the various points for relief. So ays the Lockport Journal.

The street railroads of Cincinnati still ract six cents fare from their passengers, notwithstanding the law is against them. The efer in each case where suit is instituted to let it go by default. It is believed in the long run the five cent fares will yield them the most money, but meanwhile they are plucky, and prefer to pay judgments rather than succumb.

It will be perceived from the construction given the section referred to by the Attorney General, tant the only class of officers who are those who were in common months pay are those who were in the contract of the war, but before the expiration of their term of service, by authority of the Secretary of War, because their services were no longer required in the army. In the opinion above referred to the service, by authority of the Secretary of War, because their services were no longer required in the army.

General H. G. Wright is now in command of the United States troops at Brownsville, Texas, and we sincerely hope General Mejia will have a much more agreeable time of it than he did with the drunken Weitzel. We see that this man Weitzel is already mustered out of service. On the first of this month he ceased to wear the epaulettes of a Major-General in the U. S. A., which he has disgraced a hundred times. Go, Godfrey Weitzel, go—and may the long and deep curses of an outraged community attend you. Go, and die in a doggery, to which your debased nature and groveling instincts lead you, and may the cries of old men, women, and children of Louisiana, whom you have persecuted so much, ring in your ears on your dying bed, and when dead, may "God Almighty have mercy on your scul." —Mex. THE FENIANS.

[From the Army and Navy Journal.] Have we an Irish republic amongst us? Yes bave one, and, if we could pause there, ould do very well. Unluckily, we have two Irish republics here in America, each a full set of efficials, ruling over a happy patriotic, though somewhat excited, peo As we find two Irish republics in American there were the republic of the repub ere we do not need any, it is not surpri A where we do not need any, it is not surprise to learn that there is not even one one institution in Ireland itself. Why the wo seats of government of the two Irish republics are located in New York; why the Robts does not forthwith establish his republic, yin Cork, and the O Mahony, say in Dablin, here they are reported to be much desired by the people, is a point naturally suggested, but hich requires rather more elaboration and expism in twain, and made it more lu han formidable. The great Sunday demon tration in Jones' Wood, a well known place resort near New York, indicates the eff the hostile news from across the water. Eght spended in Ireland in a crisis similar esent. On the 17th of February last, resent. On the 17th of February last, leave on the assimilar suspension till the 1st of eptember next was granted in Parliament y the extraordinrry majority of three hunged and sixty-four to six—practical unanimity. The conclusion is irresistible that the action is the Bitish Government has stamped Fenjosm in Ireland with the rank of open rebelon. The strength of the vote by which the abeas corpus was suspended, and the fact that lithat class of statesmen on whose judgment I that class of statesmen on whose judgment public affairs we of America have learned to ly supported the measure, clearly indicate at the Irish movement must no longer be thed of as "disaffection," but as revolt-nce Wodehouse pointed where to Sir Geotte. pposition, spoke in support of the proposition, odd Mr. Bright, Mr. Mill, and others. It is lear, accordingly, that Fenianism is aglow in relend.

The first effect to be looked for from this declaive measure of the British Government is a sudden outburst, here and there, of the long-smouldering rebellion. The suspension of the babess corpus act will be regarded in Ireland as downright "hyranny." So it appeared to the excited assemblage in Jones's Wood last Sunday. So it appeared to Londoners when our own Government suspended the act a few years ago. We shall have the authorities and he insurgents brought face to face in open ssue, sconer than otherwise could have been expected. The leisurely drilling, equip-ping and accumulation of funds by Ameri-aan Feniars will mature into more decisive least, and the quarrels of Head Centers be posttill—say "sixty days after the recognitill—say "sixty days after the recognithe Irish Republic." The next great not yet seen any such practical dead.

In the flist place, there is a fearful inequality In the first piace, there is a rearrar negatanty at the combatants—reflection will supply the details of this general statement to every man. Again, the situation of the combatants is the best possible for Great Britain, and the worst for the would-be Irish Republic. Iraland can t flooded with troops and const me from across the narrow a rongly held by militia and oth can Fenians. But how are these to operate?
The coasts of Ireland are patroled by British cruisers, and the seas all around swarm with them. Supposea body of men formidable enough to free Ireland, in conjunction with her defeated bereantry, could leave our shores and get across he ocean—suppose arms.

THE KASSON DIVORCE CASE—A CONFESSION AND DIVORCE.

From the Dubuque Herald, March 3.] The institution of a suit of divorce by Mrs. ohn A. Kasson against her husband, and their nal separation, has excited some attention uring the jest three weeks, but still has not eccived that attention from the press which its more appropriance would seem to demand. While he was absent in Washington this win ter, Mrs. Kasson not only heard, but it would seem obtained evidence that he was guilty of violating his marital vows. Who with, however, when or where, is not known, and proba-bly will not be made public. It is said, how-ever, that the lady in question was indiscreet enough to write him a letter that contained s good many things a friendly epistic should not contain, and this of course was miscarried and finally came into Mrs. Kasson's possession, and t is presumed that this contained the evidence of his sin. Be this as it may, she considered her wrongs too grievous to be borne, and with a full knowledge of all she and he both must sacrifice, she determined to institute proceedings, and a petition for divorce was drawn up, but we cannot learn that it was ever ned. This was sbout the middle of February. Of course, it would not long be kept a secret, and when started, it traveled fast. Its first public announcement, we think, was contained in our Des Moines dispatch published on the morning of February 20. Mr. Kasson was at once informed of the state of affairs, and started for he me. It will be recollected he was charged in some of the papers with dodging on some of the important votes taken that week in Congress; but it now appears he was speeding away of his sin. Be this as it may, she considere

they were.
The result is already announced. He as it is said acknowledged his guilt; she laid down her terms, he agreed to them, they resolved upon an amicable separation; legal proceedings, if any had been instituted, were dropped, and he is now on his return to Washington. The lovers of scandal, and those eager for the purplest, development of such divergences. prurient development of such divorce cases, are disappointed, and in a short time the whole thing will have passed from the public mind.

FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 1866. FEELINGS OF THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE -The Disunionists in Congress are trying to fortify themselves through the labors of their right bower, the Destruction Committee of Fifteen. They hope through this guillotine to decapitate the President. Now, it is not the fact, as the headed by his instrument, and the Disunionists may not be by theirs. It is a fact, however, that Morton, the Regent of Scotland, tell a victim to the guillotine which he introduced, and the would-be Regent of the United States from Pennsylvania may perhaps thereby take a hint as to the practical workings of the "infernal machine" which he has introduced into Congress in the shape of his Destruction Committee. The gentlemen composing this inquisition are catching up all the stray persons they can lay their hands upon, and examining them as to the feelings and loyalty of the Southern. people. Occasionally they examine responsible men as to the state of public sentiment in the outh, among whom is Major-General George H. Thomas, whose testimony we published Gen. Thomas states, among other things, that he has received communications from "reliable and truthful" persons to the effect that works. secret political organizations exist to some exand formed to embarrass it by "endeavoring or an ascendancy in Congress as to make provision | it there had been only three members-Presiincurred by the rebel government. Also, in private gentleman could have passed the reso.

making strong efforts to gain very important ecncessions to the people of the South, and if possible to repudiate the national debt incurred consequence of the rebellion, or to gain such for the assumption by Congress of the debt volved in a foreign war, to watch their opportunity and take advantage of the first that occurs to strike for the independence of the States lately in rebellion." Gen. Thomas says that his information leads him to believe that these organizations exist in all the States lately , but he does not know to what extent the disaffection has extended, and that he is not aware that any persons of influence are implithe whole truth in reference to the matter. We are under the impression that Ger. Thomas has been misled and imposed upon by sons whose excited imaginations have run away with their judgments. We have conversed with many persons from different Southern States since the close of hostilities, and in but a single instance have we heard of anything of the kind hinted at. We think to the Southern people. If there is any one truth that is admitted on all hands, and which seems to be settled, it is that they are done fighting; that nothing could induce them to renew a contest which would be utter madness something worse, without or with foreign sid. We don't believe there is a man in the South, who has been a General in the Confederate service, or a Governor of a Southern State, or a Representative or Senator in the who would give the least countenance to so Utopian an idea. At the same time, we do not doubt that there are persons of the lowest character in the Southern cities—persons who would rob a neighbor in the dark, make a radical speech, or turn overseer upon a plantation found him a most charming gentlemen-conin Cuba, or engage in the African slave trade on the coast of Guinea, or who would readily engage in any other enterprise out of which could make, or think they could make, a "good thing"-who would give countenance to the idea of secret societies hostile to the Government, or any other idea equally brilliant and seeing. There were guerrillas and robbers in the South who were ready to prey upon either party, according to the chances of success. These fellows are not all dead. There are some of them lying about loose here in Kentucky, and we doubt not they honor other ex-slave States, as they do Northern States, by their personal presence. It is against these wretchesthe scum and putridity which the troubled waters of the last five years turned up-that society has to contend and will have to contend, in should arm itself against them. The primal law of nature demands it, and the great interests of liberty, safety, civil rights, and protec tion, in the South particularly, demand it. Good men must combine to hunt down the urbers of the public peace. Every honest man has a direct, special motive for doing so. These human vultures must be extirpated - hanged or shut up in the peniten-

If there are any other persons than this pecu liar class in the South who have given countenance to political organizations hostile to the Government, they must be those sagacious individuals who, in the fall of 1860, were perfectly sure that an armed struggle with the United States Government would be "no great shakes no how," and would end within six months in the establishment of an independent Southern Empire, "the most glorious that the sun ever shone upon." And, really, we don't think, we can't think, that the counsels of such men will now or hereafter have much weight with the Southern masses. The class of persons who would be ready to form secret societies to "em barrass the Government" and to "watch their opportunity" "to strike for the independence of the States lately in rebellion" must be such as were referred to by a Major-General of the Confederacy in a conversation with us some time since, and whose character we will describe for the benefit and enlightenment of the Destruction Committee of Fifteen.

The General we refer to was temporarily at Memphis, stopping at a hotel. A stranger, ascertaining who he was, desired a private inter. view with him upon some matters of great pith and moment. Wishing to be posted upon anything that might be astir, the General granted the private interview. Seeking a retired apartment, carefully shutting the door, and seeing there were no eaves-droppers about, Mr. Noo dles, with an air of mystery and in a low voice,

"General, what are you going to do?" General-"Do about what?" Noodles-"Why, about-about our - independence, of course." General-"Oh, I'm done, sir, I'm done. I'm going to work to make a living."

Noodles-"I'm not!" General-"Where are you from?" Noodles-"Missouri."

General-"What regiment did you belong Noodles-"Well, I didn't exactly belong to any. I acted independently."

General—"Oh, ah, yes, I understand. You are right, my friend"-patting him on the back-"I'm done fighting, but you are my man; you now go shead!" The interview ended, Noodles turning red and white by turns, and no doubt much disgusted. It is such fellows, if any, from the slums of Richmond, Nashville, New Orleans, Mobile, Savannah, Charleston, etc., who form secret societies to "strike for Southern independence," but who will be much more likely to strike a belated citizen on his way home in a dark night for his watch and purse.

Gen. Thomas intimates, though he does not seem to be quite satisfied as to the fact, that in some sections of the South the feeling is not as favorable as it was soon after the close of hostilities. We think this quite likely, and the tionists in Congress may thank themas are naturally calculated to chill and retard the returning loyalty of the Southern people. We charge it home upon them. It is one of their abominations. They have done nothing to encourage loyalty in the South, but everything they could to discourage it. Now, we presume they will turn round, and, with characteristic impudence, allege the work of their own hands as the excuse for still further depredations upon the Constitution and still further efforts to demollah the Union, in order to "re construct" it upon the model of the Council of Ancients and the Council of Five Hundred. If they should succeed, their work would no civil rights, prosperity, and peace. Let them not make a mistake. If they do, it will be a terrible one—in comparison with which that made in 1860-61 will have been as nothing. We cannot afford to use soft words or deal in unmeaning generalities upon a matter fraught with such importance as this to the South, as well as to the country at large. The Southern masses, the thinking masses, if they comprehend their true condition, will crush out by an overwhelming public sensiment every vestige of dis-loyalty in word or deed, every attempt at machinations squinting in the remotest degree at the revival of any issue which the war has settled. They will, if they comprehend their belief has it, that Dr. Guillotin was own interests, protect the freedmen in all of their rights of person and property equally with white men. They will do WHAT THEY unless they want to give his enemies and their enemies a complete victory over him and over

The spirit and conduct of the Journa toward the rebels who have returned to the midst of us since the war, has been uniformly kind and liberal. We have constantly expressed both hope and confidence in them, as citizens who had renewed their allegiance to the Government. It is our disposition now to treat them in that spirit, but any effort on their part to establish in the State a separate political organization will receive from us the most unequivocal hostility. We have no compromise to offer on the subject. We can only say in the memorable language of Grant, "Surrender unconditionally, or we will move upon your

The Courier called for a prodigious meeting at the Court-house. It expected a tremendous meeting. It got a meeting of fifteen men. The Pier and Mantle Mirrors of

The Democrat's faction and the Courier's French Window-Glass, faction are in a terrible fight as to whether there shall be the poor little matter of a State convention to nominate a Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Now isn't that as poor, petty, little. small a question as two factions ever fought about! The future historian of Kentucky affairs will brand the proposed Sectationists' Convention with a degree of infamy not less than that which attaches to the celebrated Hartford Convention, the members of which held out blue lights along the seashore to guide British pirates in their depredations on American commerce.

We have been watching the proceedings, as published in the Courier, of the county meetand we have received letters from many others, inge called in different parts of the State to appoint delegates to the Secessionists' Convention of the 1st of May, and we have not yet seen the such reports are calculated to do gross injustice | name of a Union man among the delegates chosen.

We are glad to see the Courier's enlargement-'tis an evidence of its pecuniary prosperity. We gave notice, two weeks ago, of our intention to enlarge our sheet, and dispatched to New York for the necessary materials, which we are expecting every morning.

PEOPLE'S MASS CONVENTION. of all parties, in various portions of the State we announce that a grand mass meeting of the friends of President Johnson's restoration pollcy will assemble in this city on WEDNESDAY, THE SEVENTH OF NEXT MAY. All the counties of the State are earnestly requested to send celegates to the meeting, irrespective of old party issues or party names, that the people mination to sustain the President against the

In our Indianapolis special will be found report of the proceedings of the Indiana State Convention, including the speech delivered by Hon. D. W. Voorhees. The platform adopted by the convention is a substantial one and does honor to the men who formed it. As will be observed, the greatest harmony of action prevailed, and the indorsement of Andrew Johnson was enthusiastic and unqualified. This convention is said to have been the largest ever held in the State.

at a special sitting of the Police Court at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The defendant was a young man named William Cox, but who, when arrested, called himself Nelson. He was taken into custody by Officers Bligh and Slater, upon the charge of indecent exposure of person. For the last three or four months omplaints have been made against this man treet and by misses attending the schools in that part of the city. During that time he has loitered in the neighborhood and repeatedly offered the most brutal insults to the adies who appeared as his accusers yesterday. The police, from their imperfect description of the dirty rascal, had been unable to identify Officer Bligh recognized him yesterday, after having watched his movements through the greater part of the day. Several of the lady identified the prisoner and fully estab lished his guilt. For his unblushing obscenits on three occasions, Cox was fined $60, and further held in a bond of $1,000 for his decent vior for twelve months. It is a pity that the law provides no heavier penalty for such shameless conduct as this brute was charged with. He is said to be an employe in boiler-yard of Mr. John Pearce, 443 West Main street, but is a resident of New Albany. In the scurrilous offenses he so brazenly commit ted, he seems to have had no scruples about dishonoring his respectable family. They may well feel ashamed for him. HEAVY BAIL -On Monday night last, at the ecruiting office on Main street, between First and Second, two men named Thomas Ryan and Charles Harris committed a fiendish outrage upon the body of a poor young woman deceased Union soldier, and had visited this city, we understand, in search of some relatives. Having made application at various military offices for assistance until she could find her men's Bureau, where her destitution was made known. Capt. Kennedy very kindly provided a lodging-place for the lady. During the night. the above-named villains, who had just enlisted in the army, forcibly entered the room where Mrs. Stevens was sleeping. One of them, with knife threateningly drawn, compelled the help ess woman to submit to his diabolical outrage. and the other black hearted scoundrel attempt ed the same act but without success. Mrs. Stevens struggled from their grasp, and they escaped before she could alarm the police. The men were a few hours afterward arrested and taken to jail by Officers Fritch and Ovington. On presentation before the City Court yesterday the authors of this foul crime were held to ba in $2,500 each to appear at the next term of the

that the colored population of our city are making an organized effort to collect a sufficient amount to procure an Orphans' Home for the destitute orphan negroes in our city. It is a noble charity, and the effort they are making is an early evidence of their sincere desire to take care of their helpless orphans. They should be encouraged. The charity should not be confined to the negroes alone. Our liberal and Christian community should, as we believe said, "Suffer little children to come unto me," did not mean the whites alone. This is intended to give them religious instruction, and to teach them how to become good and useful night was pretracted to a late hour. It was one of the most interesting sessions of the two Boards since the memorable Market street railway embroglio. The police bill, constitut ing the Mayor, Presidents of the Upper and Lower Boards of the Council, and the Chairmen of the two Police Committees a Board of Commissioners for the appointment of members of the police force, was reconsidered and passed. This will produce quite a revolution in the Police Department—for the better, it is to be hoped. The election held resulted in the reconfirmation of Colonel A. Y. Johnson, Chief of Fire Department; George Stealy, City Enof the Hospital. With these old incumbents the people are more than satisfied, and the Council but ratified the popular wish in reelecting them.

APPOINTMENT .- Major J. C. Robinson of the d United States infantry (Brevet Brigadier-General U. S. A), has been appointed a member of the Board of Officers to assemble at Washington, D. C., on the 16th inst., or so soon thereafter as practicable, to make recomtry from any brevet or actual rank for which the appointment is already confirmed to the grade of Colonel or any lower grade in the and Jefferson streets during the past week of regular army. These recommendations will be of two classes, for "gallant and meritorious service" and for "faithful service." The Board of Officers is ordered to meet by Lieutenant-General U. S. Grant. Joseph Gaillard, a detective of the Treasury Department, who has been stationed for several months past in this city, and has been actively engaged in "working up" counterfeiting business in the West, was arrested day before yesterday, at McArthur, Vinton county, Ohio, charged with being implicated with certain safe blowing burglars in blowing open the safe of the Treasury of that county recently. The arrest was made at the instance of Wim. Reany, independent detective, between whom and Mr. Gaillard an enmity has for some time existed. We know enough of the facts in this case, and of the character of the parties, and their dealings with professional thieves and counterfeiters, to justify us in assuring our readers that the charge is probably an unjust one, which cannot be sustained by evidence of a proper character. Mr. Gaillard may have been acquainted with the burglars who did the work, and he may have had occasion in his business to use one or more of them as "spotters," but we doubt very much the statement that he is in any way implicated with them in their burglarious operations. Never was a law so perfectly framed for the subversion of liberty. If the President had been a bold, bad man, disposed to use the terrible engine thus offered him, he could have destroyed the goverpment and erected almost anything he desired on its ruins; but he was a true patriot, worthy of the support of a free people, whose interests he had guarded. The Republican Convention which met in this city on the 22d did not dare indorse the Bureau. The morning hour was taken up in the disassion of a resolution to print 100,000 copies at the report of the Reconstruction Committee, and a motion to amend it by reducing it to 60,000. The amendment was disagreed to, and the original resolution adopted.

The civil rights bill was then taken up. Mr. Davis made remarks against the bill, after which the last amendment of the House was agreed to. The bill has passed both houses, and will be presented to the Precident for his signature.

> The Committee on Resolutions, through their Chairman, Judge Hanna, reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the Indiana State Convention:

the Cincinnati Commercial of 1860. They told the Southern States to go, whereas every Democratic speaker reiterated the principle that the Union must be preserved. The disunionists of the North, though at first anxious for a dissolution of the Union, saw visions of hate, revenge, plunder, and spoliation in the war, and suddenly became very anxious to preserve the Union they had labored to destroy. But they were all along the real disunionists. Even now they continue disunionists, and refuse to permit the restoration of peace and harmony which might so easily be effected. They will tell you that they refuse to admit Southern members to their rights in the Union meet with course for lust for political power, and being exerted to thrust such States out of the Union, we solten the veto of the Freedmen's Buréau bill, and declare that in our judgment the courage displayed, the doctrine avowed, and the high sense of right manifested in that message and subsequent speeches promise well for the future administration of the Precident, and we hereby pledge him the earnest and disinterested support of the Indiana Democracy, in all his conflicts with that fauntipeople in the South, but it is false. He had seen l. Johnson, of Arkansas, a loyal man, who had been scourged from head to foot under the Federal flag, refused the ordinary courtesy of principle that taxation and rep should go together; that property of every description, whether houses, lands, merchandise, or Government bonds should bear its fair share of taxation; and that there should be no fav classes on the duplicate. The man who has money to buy bonds and live on the interest is exempt, and contributes not a dollar to support the State, county, or city. As Democrats, we are compelled to say that these laws are injurious and counters are and about the same are injurious and counters are and about the same are injurious and counters are and about the same are injurious and counters are and about the same are injurious and counters are and about the same are injurious and a same are injurious a

Mr. Buskirk, who had been mentioned favorably for Secretary of State, withdrew his name so as to give a clear track for General Manson. Mr. McDonald, of Wayne, moved that the Central Committee be instructed to print 50,000 opies of the addresses and proceedings of the Convention, 20,000 to be in German. The candidates were then called out succes vely, and in nest terms expressed their obliions for the honor conferred upon them. Mr. Applegate proposed a mass convention of he Democracy on the 4th day of July, but it was finally referred to the State Central Com-ness in harmony, adjourned, with three rousg cheers for the ticket. Judging from the few Republicans present, the enthusiasm and spirit of the Convention, the days of Reublicanism in Indiana are wellnigh ended; o one present but felt it was an omen of a bright future, and the men in official station, who are battling against radicalism can't be out back. When he said the whole Union he meant what he said, for he believed that the storms and roubles which had distracted the nation for the past five years were over, and that now, hrough the dark clouds, he could see the bright gleaming of the day star, speaking of hope and erty for the people. He did not propose to adulge in lengthy remarks, as he presumed veryone present would be heard from by eech, or by his vote with regard to his intenons for the coming canvass. Mr. V. a sured the Domocracy of Inmake against him. He congratulated the Democracy of Indiana on their fidelity to the Union, the Constitution, and the principles of free government; he believed that a terrible isis in the life of the nation was approaching. The enemy that the Democracy must meet and overthrow is no new one; it is the same foe to free government which rose up thirty years ago, a party of disunion, of higher law, of disruption, and anarchy. The Union of these States, so far as official power can recognize it, is now embodied in Andrew Johnson, the President of the United States. The Republican convention, which met in this city on the 22d of Feb ruary, had passed a resolution which was posiively insulting to the President, while it insed the leaders in Congress, who are doing all in their power to thwart his efforts for the restoration of peace and harmony. The party which now controls the action of Congress rose thirty years ago as a disunion party. To the party which derives its inspiration from the Sumners and the Stevenses, we are in a good measure indebted for the terrible civil war which has devastated and impoverished our country. The Southern secessionists unaided by the disunion party of the North, could never have effected it. The real disunion party was to be found in the North. Witness the teachings of the Indianapolis Journal and the Cincinnati Commercial of 1860. They told

 Resolved, That among the powers ceded to he States that of withdrawal at will from the Union cannot be found, and consequently such doctrine can be asserted only as a revolutionary movement, and not peaceably as a right; and the late action of the Southern people in resorting to such measures as a mode of redress of grievances was illegal, and had no sustaining principle but that of physical force; and, hav-ing proved insufficient, those people became re-entitled to their constitutional relations and rights, of which obedience and protection are the chief.

tation eleven States acknowledged to be in the Union by having their votes counted in favor of the Constitutional Amendment, abolishing slavery, the Senate and House have usurped powers not delegated to them by the Constitution, and are acting in violation thereof. We further believe that all members from the Southern States who have been lately elected and possess the constitutional qualifications should be immediately admitted, and, upon the refusal of Congress to admit the members of such States to their seats, admit the members of such States to their seats, it is the prerogative and duty of the President of the United States to defend and uphold the integrity of every State now in the Union, and to take care that the laws are fully executed.

A Resolved, That we are inflexibly opposed to a prohibiting, protective tanif, for the reason that it largely increases the price of all articles of consumption and decreases the revenue of the government; that it operates greatly to add to the onerous burdens of industry, while it yearly adds fabulous wealth to the manufacturing interests of New England, and that it is oppressive to the great sgricultural interests of the Northwest, in making such interest subservient to that of manufacturing, by greatly decreasing the profits of the former and largely increasing the profits of the former and largely increasing the profits of the former and largely increasing those of the latter.

5. Resolved, That we declare it to be a just principle that taxation and representation curred with what the gentlemen from Massa-chusetts said.

The Speaker stated he had always insisted, since he occupied the chair, that a gentleman, in making a personal explanation, must state the grounds on which he is aggrieved, and must render his remarks in the same degree relavant to that subject. The Chairman thinks there is a reason in that the gentleman from Keu-tucky is clearly in order while vindicating him-self from what he deems an unjust attack upon him for offering a resolution giving the privi-lege of the floor to a member elect who, it is asserted in an article read, sharpened his tooth asserted in an article read, sharpened by picking the skulls of Union soldiers Mr. Smith, of Kentucky, went on the statutes of the late rebel States, de he theory that they were out of the Union as the gentleman from Kentucky was out of order

There was a spirited contest for the others, but with the best of feeling. The ticket nominated is an excellent one, and will command public confidence. Approved March 10, 1866. A mother who was in the habit of asking her children, before they retired at night, what they had done to make others happy, found her two twin daughters silent. The question was repeated. "I can remember nothing good all this day, dear mother; only one of my schoolmates was happy because she had gained the head of the class, and I smiled on her, and ran to kiss her; so she said I was good. I saw that, while she studied her lesson, she hid her face in her book and wept. I felt sorry, and laid my face on the same book and wept with her. Then she looked up and was comforted, and put her arms around my neck; but I do not know why she said I had done her good."
